SOCIAL PROTECTION IN ASIA AND THE PACIFIC: INVENTORY OF NON-CONTRIBUTORY PROGRAMMES

Designed by the IPC-IG Publications team: Roberto Astorino, Flávia Amaral, Rosa Maria Banuth and Manoel Salles

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

This report presents an inventory of non-contributory social protection programmes in South and East Asian countries and the Pacific Islands. It is based on an extensive review of official government documents and websites, reports and relevant documents produced by international organisations, and academic papers. All documents consulted during the production of this inventory are listed in the References and Notes sections. UNICEF Country Offices and other partners in the region have helped validate and update programme-level information included in the report.

We would like to thank the following UNICEF Country Office teams for their valuable contributions: Bangladesh, Bhutan, China, East Timor, India, Indonesia, Laos, Mongolia, Nepal, Sri Lanka, Thailand, and Viet Nam. Furthermore, we would also like to thank UNICEF Pacific, WFP Bhutan, WFP Lao PDR and the Department of Social Welfare and Development of the Philippines.

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Social protection programmes are now widely recognised as key policy instruments for developing countries to combat poverty. The 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development has explicitly recognised the importance of implementing “nationally appropriate social protection systems and measures for all, including floors” as an explicit target under Sustainable Development Goal 1: “End poverty in all its forms everywhere”¹ Nonetheless, knowledge of specific programmes being implemented across developing countries can be fragmented or inaccessible. This study intends to contribute towards addressing these gaps, providing an overview of non-contributory social protection programmes (those providing regular and predictable cash or in-kind transfers or services) in selected regions in Asia and the Pacific. Moreover, the profiles presented will also be made available online, through the socialprotection.org platform.

This report was supported by Australia’s Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade (DFAT) and the research was co-led by International Policy Centre for Inclusive Growth (IPC-IG) and UNICEF teams, with the former focusing on low- and middle-income countries in South and East Asia, and the latter on 11 Pacific Island Countries. The research was based on a comprehensive literature review, complemented by consultations with local focal points, including UNICEF Country Offices and government representatives, who provided substantial inputs to the review of the programmes. These sources are referenced as ‘personal communication’ throughout the report.

Programme selection included those fully or partially financed, designed or implemented by governments, and about which there was sufficient available information. Thus, this publication does not represent an exhaustive mapping of all non-contributory programmes in these countries, but rather an overview of the main programmes currently in place. In total, 215 programmes from 30 countries were mapped, of which 141 were profiled. These are presented by country, in alphabetical order. The remaining programmes, for which less information was available, are presented in the “Additional Programmes” section. The next section presents an overview of the main observable trends across these programmes.

Overview of main trends

As can be seen in Figure 1, most profiled programmes started being implemented after the mid-1990s.

Source: Authors’ elaboration based on the profiled programmes for which the start year was identified (a total of 136 programmes and/or components).

1. See: <<https://sustainabledevelopment.un.org/sdg1>>.

Furthermore, most of the mapped programmes are unconditional and conditional cash transfers (see Figure 2). Overall, 135 programmes were found to provide cash benefits, while 37 provide food, and 66 offer other types of benefits, which may consist of services or other in-kind goods. Figure 3 also illustrates that most of the mapped programmes are categorically targeted.

Note: These categories are not mutually exclusive, as one programme can be classified as more than one type. Other, less prevalent, types of programmes were also mapped, but not included in this figure (e.g. food-for-work programmes).

Source: Authors' elaboration based on the mapped programmes for which the type was identified.

Note: Categories are not mutually exclusive, as one programme can use more than one targeting method.

Source: Authors' elaboration based on the mapped programmes for which the targeting method was identified.

Note: Categories are not mutually exclusive, as some overlap and some programmes may target more than one group.

2. Employment Generation Programme for the Poorest (EGPP)

Country	Bangladesh
Programme	Employment Generation Programme for the Poorest (EGPP)
Geographic area	South Asia
Previous programme name	100 Days Employment Scheme [1]
Start date	The programme started in 2009 as the '100 Days Employment Scheme', becoming the EGPP in 2010 [1]
Programme objectives	To provide short-term employment to people who are seasonally unemployed, while also developing community assets and rural infrastructure [1] [2]
Programme typology	Cash-for-work
Programme components
Conditionalities
Targeting mechanisms	Categorical, geographical, community targeting, means-tested, and self-targeting [3] [4]
Target areas	Nationwide, with priority given to the poorest areas [3]
Target groups	Working-age population
Coverage	The programme reached nearly 1 million individuals during the 2016 fiscal year [4] For the 2018-2019 fiscal year, the programme is expected to cover 827,000 people [6]
Eligibility criteria	Factors related to land and asset ownership, income, and marital and disability status. Eligible households should have less than 0.5 acre of land, no productive assets, and less than BDT4,000 (approximately USD50) as annual income; the head of household should also work as a day labourer. These criteria should be applied by local committees of elected officials in the selection of participating households. The wage rate of the programme is also lower than other workfare programmes in Bangladesh, enabling self-targeting [4]
Eligibility reassessment
Type of benefits	Cash
Amount of benefits	BDT200 per working day [5]
Payment/delivery frequency	Wages are deposited weekly; out of the daily rate, BDT25 is retained in the beneficiary's bank account as a deposit that can be withdrawn at a later date [5]
Benefit delivery mechanism	Payments are transferred to beneficiaries' bank accounts [5]
Benefit recipients	Beneficiaries themselves [5]
Minimum and maximum duration of benefits	The programme runs from October to December and from March to April of every year. Beneficiaries work for 7 hours per day [2]
Programme expenditure	BDT1,650.00 crore (1 crore = 10 million) in the 2018-19 fiscal year [6]
Institutions and agencies involved	Ministry of Disaster Management and Relief. World Bank is a key partner [2] [3]
Monitoring and evaluation mechanisms and frequency

2. School Feeding Programme

Country	Bhutan
Programme name	School Feeding Programme
Geographic area	South Asia
Previous Programme name
Start date	The government has been collaborating with WFP to provide school meals since 1976 [1]
Objectives of the programme	To improve the educational outcomes and nutritional status of children [1]
Programme typology	School Feeding Programme
Programme components	An iron, de-worming and vitamin A supplementation programme is carried out in collaboration with the Ministry of Health [1] School feeding is implemented through both in-kind transfers and cash transfers. For in-kind transfers, there are currently nine commodities (non-perishable) that are centrally procured through the Food Corporation of Bhutan Limited (FCBL) by the Ministry of Education and delivered to feeding schools by the FCBL. Regarding the cash transfer component, BTN 400/child/month is transferred to schools through the district administration, to aid with the purchase of perishable commodities such as vegetables, fruits and meat [2]
Conditionalities	School attendance
Methods of targeting	Categorical
Target areas	Nationwide [3]
Target groups	Children
Coverage	72,503 students (2017) [3]
Eligibility criteria	Students enrolled in primary boarding schools and secondary schools [3] Eligibility to the government-supported feeding programme is based on walking distance. If a student resides further than 5 km from a school or has to walk more than an hour, he/she is eligible for school boarding. Boarding students are eligible for school feeding, with three daily meals. Students in the central schools are also eligible for a mid-day meal. For WFP-supported schools, eligibility is based on vulnerability to food insecurity and other educational indicators such as enrolment, attendance and accessibility to schools. WFP-supported school children are provided with two meals a day (breakfast and lunch). However, WFP support to school feeding with food commodities will be discontinued from 2019 onwards, at which point the children will be supported by the government under the National School Feeding Programme. Annually, the care of an agreed number of WFP-supported students is being transferred to the RGoB [2]
Eligibility reassessment
Type of benefits	Food
Amount of benefits	Depends on the type of beneficiary. Boarders: three meals per day; day students in WFP-supported schools: two meals per day; day students in central schools: one meal per day [2]
Payment frequency	Daily
Benefit delivery mechanism	Meals are delivered directly at schools
Recipient of the benefit	Students
Minimum and maximum duration of benefits	290 days for boarding students and about 240 days for day students in a year [2]
Total programme expenditure	In the 2015-16 fiscal year, the programme had a governmental budget of BTN399,293,000.00 and an expenditure of BTN295,685,599.88 [1]

Involved agencies	The Royal Government of Bhutan's Ministry of Education and the World Food Programme (WFP). WFP is progressively handing over the full programme to the Ministry of Education, a process which is expected to be completed by the end of 2018 [1]
Monitoring and evaluation mechanisms and frequency	The Royal Audit Authority produced an audit report on the programme in 2017, which recommended instituting a monitoring and inspection mechanism to ensure food quality standards and monitor children's nutritional status [1]

Local communities are also encouraged to be involved in the process. Moreover, monitoring institutes, which are also in charge of verifying the progress and quality of the programme at the district level, covering 5 per cent of the total number of MDM-participating schools over within a period of two years, submit half-yearly reports. Monthly and quarterly progress reports produced by states are also part of the monitoring and evaluation efforts [2] [3]

4. National Health Protection Scheme (NHPS)

Country	India
Programme	National Health Protection Scheme (NHPS)
Geographic area	South Asia
Previous programme name	The Rashtriya Swasthya Bima Yojana (RSBY) programme, which was under the purview of the Ministry of Labour and Employment, was shifted to the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare and renamed as Rashtriya Swasthya Suraksha Yojana (RSSY), and later was renamed again as National Health Protection Scheme in the 2017-18 budget [1]
Start date	2008 [2]
Programme objectives	To provide beneficiaries with financial protection against catastrophic health expenditures and to improve access to quality health care [3]
Programme typology	Non-contributory health insurance
Programme components	The programme provides coverage for hospitalisation expenses and transportation charges [4]
Conditionalities
Targeting mechanisms	Other poverty/vulnerability assessments [4]
Target areas	Nationwide
Target groups	People living below the poverty line
Coverage	130 million beneficiaries in more than 41 million households (2017) are currently covered by RSBY, but coverage is expected to be expanded under the NHPS [2] [5]
Eligibility criteria	The benefits extend to a maximum of five members (including the head of household, spouse and three dependents) of any household below the poverty line. There are no age limits and pre-existing conditions are covered [4]
Eligibility reassessment
Type of benefits	Health care services
Amount of benefits	Hospitalisation coverage of up to INR30,000 per year on a family floater basis for diseases defined in package list. Transportation charges are also covered at the rate of INR100 per visit, up to a maximum of INR1,000 per year [4]
Payment/delivery frequency	After receiving the smart card, beneficiaries can seek treatment whenever they want or need [2]
Benefit delivery mechanism	Selected insurance companies enroll households directly in villages and issue a biometric smart card to beneficiaries, which can be used to access cashless treatment at any public or private hospital across India which is registered with the scheme [2]
Benefit recipients	The card is given to the head of the household. In some states like West Bengal, the RSBY smart card is issued in the women's name [2]
Minimum and maximum duration of benefits
Programme expenditure	INR1,000 crore (1 crore = 10 million) (budget estimates for the 2017-18 fiscal year) [6]
Institutions and agencies involved	Ministry of Health and Family Welfare [3]
Monitoring and evaluation mechanisms and frequency	State Nodal Agencies (SNA) oversee monitoring the scheme, in coordination with insurance company, hospital, and district authorities, as well as other local stakeholders. Furthermore, the programme will rely on a back-end data management system to track all transactions and provide analytical reports [3]

Conditionalities
Targeting mechanisms	Categorical; other poverty/vulnerability assessments
Target areas	Nationwide [2]
Target groups	Elderly people, widows, people living with disabilities, and households living below the poverty line, without a breadwinner [2]
Coverage	IGNOAPS: 22,981,127 beneficiaries. IGNWPS: 6,333,059 beneficiaries. IGNDPS: 1,087,361 beneficiaries. NFBS: 293,977 beneficiaries. Annapurna Scheme: 928,333 beneficiaries (2014-15) [4]
Eligibility criteria	People living below the poverty line are eligible for the programme Each component has further specific eligibility criteria IGNOAPS: 60 years and above IGNWPS: 40 years and above. IGNDPS: 18 years and above with a disability level of 80 per cent. Little people are also entitled to this benefit NFBS: households whose bread-winner (male or female, between 18 and 60 years of age) passed away due to any event (natural or otherwise); the term 'household' includes spouse, minor children, unmarried daughters and dependent parents. Annapurna Scheme: eligible elderly people who are not covered by the IGNOAPS [2]
Eligibility reassessment
Type of benefits	Cash and food.
Amount of benefits	IGNOAPS: INR200 per month; INR 500 for the elderly above 80 years of age IGNWPS: INR300 per month; INR 500 for the elderly above 80 years of age IGNDPS: INR300 per month; INR 500 for the elderly above 80 years of age NFBS: INR20,000 (lump sum) Annapurna Scheme: 10 kgs of wheat or rice per month per beneficiary [2]
Payment/delivery frequency	Monthly, where possible, otherwise quarterly or half yearly, in advance [1]

Benefit delivery mechanism	Banks, post office accounts, money orders and cash disbursement, with preference given to transfers to bank accounts or post office savings accounts. The NASP guidelines also state that the benefits can be delivered at the doorstep of beneficiaries using a banking correspondent model (such as postal money order). Payment in cash is adopted only if the other modes are unavailable. Benefits of the Annapurna Scheme are delivered via the Targeted Public Distribution System [2] [3]
Benefit recipients	NFBS: The family benefit will be paid to surviving members of the household of the deceased poor, who after local inquiry, is found to be the head of the household. All others: beneficiaries themselves [2]
Minimum and maximum duration of benefits	Benefits cease in case of death of the beneficiary or if the benefits are not withdrawn within a reasonable amount of time [1]
Programme expenditure	INR9,500 crore (1 crore = 10 million) (budget estimates for 2017-18 fiscal year) [5]
Institutions and agencies involved	Ministry of Rural Development [2]
Monitoring and evaluation mechanisms and frequency	The Ministry of Rural Development is assisted by a National Social Assistance Advisory Committee established at all governance levels in the process of monitoring and evaluation. State governments will produce monthly and quarterly progress reports. These reports should be produced automatically once the programme's monitoring and information system is fully operational [2]

6. Pradhan Mantri Matritva Vandana Yojana (PMMVY)

Country	India
Programme	Pradhan Mantri Matritva Vandana Yojana (PMMVY)
Geographic area	South Asia
Previous programme name	Indira Gandhi Matritva Sahyog Yojana (IGMSY)/Maternity Benefit Programme (MBP) was implemented in 2010 on a pilot-basis [1]
Start date	2010 on a pilot basis since 2017 has been implemented in all districts [1]
Programme objectives	To provide partial income to women during their first pregnancy, to allow women to take adequate rest and promote positive health-seeking behaviour among beneficiaries [1]
Programme typology	Conditional cash transfer
Programme components
Conditionalities	Early registration of pregnancy, one antenatal care visit, child registration and vaccination/immunisation [1]
Targeting mechanisms	Categorical [1]
Target areas	Nationwide [1]
Target groups	Pregnant women and lactating mothers [1]
Eligibility criteria	All first-time pregnant women and lactating mothers, except those regularly employed by the public sector or who receive similar benefits [1]
Coverage	The programme has benefited 600,000 women annually [2]
Eligibility reassessment
Type of benefits	Cash
Amount of benefits	Benefits are paid in three installments amounting to INR5000: INR1000 for the early registration of pregnancy at a Anganwadi Centre (AWC)–approved health facility INR2000 after six months of pregnancy if the beneficiary attends one antenatal check-up session INR2000 after the child is registered and vaccinated [1]
Payment/delivery frequency	Three one-time payments [1]
Benefit delivery mechanism	Programme guidelines specify that the money should be delivered via direct transfer to the beneficiaries' bank or post office personal accounts and not to the husband's/household member's joint accounts [1]
Benefit recipients	Beneficiaries themselves [1]
Minimum and maximum duration of benefits	Benefits under the scheme are delivered only once. In case of miscarriage or stillbirth, the beneficiary may receive the remaining benefits in case of another pregnancy [1]
Programme expenditure	INR2,700 crore (1 crore = 10 million) (budget estimates for the 2017-18 fiscal year) [3]
Institutions and agencies involved	Ministry of Women and Child Development [1]
Monitoring and evaluation mechanisms and frequency	Steering and monitoring committees are formed at the state, district, project and village levels to review, monitor and advise on the programme's implementation. NITI Aayog (a governmental think tank) oversees the monthly monitoring the programme during the first two years, carrying out a mid-course evaluation after six months of roll-out [1]

7. Targeted Public Distribution System (TPDS)

Country	India
Programme	Targeted Public Distribution System (TPDS)
Geographic area	South Asia
Previous programme name	Public Distribution System (PDS) and Revamped Public Distribution System (RPDS) [1]
Start date	1997 [2]
Programme objectives	TPDS aims at providing food security to poor and vulnerable people. The programme also provides subsidized fuel for household use in cooking and lighting [3] [4]
Programme typology	Food subsidies; fuel subsidies
Programme components	TPDS encompasses food and fuel subsidies. A sub-component of the TPDS is the Antyodaya Anna Yojana (AAY), which was launched in December 2000 and targets the poorest among the poor [2]
Conditionalities
Targeting mechanisms	Categorical; other poverty/vulnerability assessments
Target areas	Nationwide [5]
Target groups	Poor households [2] The following groups should be prioritised for the AAY component: landless agriculture/informal labourers and destitute people; widows or people living with disabilities or terminal illness or aged 60 years and above (or households headed by them); single women or single men with no means of providing for themselves; all particularly vulnerable tribal groups; households with HIV-positive members [2] [5]
Coverage	After NFSA's rollout nationwide, TPDS is expected to reach 190 million families (2017) [6]
Eligibility criteria	Under the National Food Security Act (NFSA) of 2013, 75 per cent and 50 per cent of the population, in rural and urban areas respectively, are entitled to receive subsidised food grains under the programme, which corresponds to about two thirds of the total population. Two types of groups benefit from the programme: 1) Priority households (to be identified by responsible states/union territories in accordance with guidelines developed by them); 2) AAY households [2] [5]
Eligibility reassessment
Type of benefits	Food and fuel at subsidised prices, namely wheat, rice, sugar, kerosene and cooking coal [6]
Amount of benefits	Under the NFSA, all eligible beneficiaries are entitled to 5 kg of food grains at subsidised prices per month per person and AAY beneficiaries are entitled to 35 kg per month per family. The subsidised prices for rice, wheat and millet are INR3/2/1 per kg, respectively. Kerosene allocation varies by state and is determined based on the beneficiaries' liquid petroleum gas connection (whether no connection, a single-bottle or a double bottle connection). Those with a double connection are not entitled to kerosene allocations; those with no connection are usually entitled to a larger amount of kerosene [6] [7] States that have achieved 100 per cent electrification will stop kerosene subsidy, as per government decision in 2014. However, a lot of states are still distributing kerosene as they still have not attained 100 per cent household electrification [8]
Payment/delivery frequency	Monthly [1]
Benefit delivery mechanism	Two types of smart cards are used, one for priority households and one for AAY households [2] The products are distributed through more than 500,000 'fair price' shops nationwide [6]
Benefit recipients	Cardholders
Minimum and maximum duration of benefits

Programme expenditure	Food subsidies: INR145,338.60 crore (1 crore = 10 million) (budget estimates for the 2017-18 fiscal year); Kerosene subsidies amounted to INR8923.87 crore (budget estimates for the 2017-18 fiscal year) [9]
Institutions and agencies involved	Department of Food and Public Distribution under the Ministry of Consumer Affairs, Food and Public Distribution. WFP also collaborates with the government to strengthen the programme [10] [11]
Monitoring and evaluation mechanisms and frequency	Evaluation studies are conducted by the Department to understand the impact of the programme on target beneficiaries and to correct any issues in programme implementation [12]

INDONESIA

1. Bantuan Langsung Sementara Masyarakat (BLSM—Unconditional Cash Transfer Programme)

Country	Indonesia
Programme	Bantuan Langsung Sementara Masyarakat (BLSM—Unconditional Cash Transfer Programme)
Geographic area	East Asia and Pacific
Previous programme name
Start date	2013 [1]
Programme objectives	Supplementing the consumption of poor households in the face of price volatility through temporary unconditional cash transfers [1]
Programme typology	Unconditional cash transfer
Programme components
Conditionalities
Targeting mechanisms	PMT (included in the national registry, UDB) [2]
Target areas	Nationwide [1]
Target groups	Poor households
Coverage	KKS and KSKS cards are intended to cover 15.8 million households [1]
Eligibility criteria	The poorest 25 per cent of Indonesian households are eligible to receive BLSM transfers. Eligible households use their social assistance cards (Kartu Perlindungan Sosial, KPS, Kartu Keluarga Sejahtera, KKS, or Kartu Simpanan Keluarga Sejahtera, KSKS) to prove their eligibility for BLSM and other programmes. The cards are delivered to eligible households via the national postal service (PT Pos) after their poverty status is verified by the UDB [1]
Eligibility reassessment
Type of benefits	Cash
Amount of benefits	In 2013, BLSM paid IDR600,000 in two installments to 15.5 million households. In 2014, IDR1,000,000 were distributed in three installments to 15.8 million households [3]
Payment/delivery frequency	BLSM transfers are temporary and typically paid in instalments.
Benefit delivery mechanism	KPS/KKS holders have received their BLSM transfers via post offices and through a state-owned bank, Bank Mandiri. From 2017 onwards, these cards should come with a magnetic strip, allowing withdrawal from ATMs, bank agents, and pre-determined locations for specific social assistance transfers. The KSKS card is equipped with a phone SIM card that can be used to receive transfers as well [1]
Benefit recipients	Social assistance cardholders [1]
Minimum and maximum duration of benefits	BLSM benefits are typically paid on a temporary basis [1]
Programme expenditure	The programme had an expenditure of IDR9,470 billion in 2015 [1]
Institutions and agencies involved	Ministry of Social Affairs [1]
Monitoring and evaluation mechanisms and frequency	The programme does not monitor processes and outcomes. A grievance redressal hotline via SMS (“Lapor!”) is in place [1]

2. Beras untuk Rakyat Sejahtera or Rastra (Rice for the Prosperous Population)

Programme	Beras untuk Rakyat Sejahtera or Rastra (Rice for the Prosperous Population)
Country	Indonesia
Geographic area	East Asia and Pacific
Previous programme name	Rice for the Poor programme (Programme Subsidi Beras Bagi Masyarakat Berpendapatan Rendah —Raskin programme); Operasi Pasar Khusus , OPK (Special Market Operations) [1]
Start date	1998 [1]
Programme objectives	Addressing poor households' food insecurity
Programme typology	Food subsidy [2]
Programme components
Conditionalities
Targeting mechanisms	Community targeting, PMT
Target areas	Nationwide [2]
Target groups	Poor households [2]
Coverage	15.5 million households (2016) [4]
Eligibility criteria	Poor and vulnerable households identified via the Basis Data Terpadu (BDT— Unified Database) [1]
Eligibility reassessment
Type of benefits	Food subsidy
Amount of benefits	15 kilograms of rice per month at a price of IDR1,600 per kilogram at the distribution point. In 2015, the amount of subsidy per kilo of rice was of IDR6,725 [1]
Payment/delivery frequency	Approximately 12 times per year [1]
Benefit delivery mechanism	Badan Urusan Logistik (BULOG, State Logistics Board) transports rice from storage warehouses to distribution points and regional governments make the transfers from the distribution point to each target household. These transfers are made mostly by local work teams consisting of village officials or the heads of neighbourhood subdivisions, RTs (groups of neighbourhood households), RWs (groups of RTs), and hamlets. Work teams advise households to collect the rice at the local distribution centre using loudspeakers and word of mouth [1] Starting in 2018, the aim is to transfer the subsidy using the KKS card where families can buy goods from certain e-warungs and gradually transition 15.6 million Rastra household beneficiaries to BPNT (cash-less food assistance to 10 million households) and Bansos Rastra (rice assistance, 5.6 million households). BPNT provides rice and other staple foods, while Bansos Rastra will provide rice [3]
Benefit recipients
Minimum and maximum duration of benefits
Programme expenditure	IDR22.5 trillion (2016) [4]
Institutions and agencies involved	Coordinating Ministry for Human Development and Culture (Menko PMK) [1]
Monitoring and evaluation mechanisms and frequency	Programme oversight, reporting, monitoring and evaluation, and complaint handling are procedures carried out at all governance levels regularly [1]

3. Jaminan Kesehatan Nasional (JKN—National Health Insurance Programme); Penerima Bantuan Iuran component (PBI—Non-Contributory Health Insurance)

Country	Indonesia
Programme	Jaminan Kesehatan Nasional (JKN—National Health Insurance Programme); Penerima Bantuan Iuran component (PBI—Non-Contributory Health Insurance)
Geographic area	East Asia and Pacific
Previous programme name	Jamkesmas [1]
Start date	Jamkesmas was launched in 2005 and Jaminan Kesehatan Nasional was established in 2014 [2]
Programme objectives	To improve the access of poor people to health care and to achieve universal health coverage [3]
Programme typology	Non-contributory health insurance
Programme components	Members of the national health insurance are either enrolled in its non-contributory modality (PBI) for the poor, or in its contributory modality (non-PBI) for salaried workers, non-salaried workers and non-employees as well as their family members [3]
Conditionalities
Targeting mechanisms	PMT
Target areas	Nationwide [3]
Target groups	The 40 per cent poorest households are targeted for PBI membership [3] [4]
Coverage	92 million individuals (approximately one-third of the population) were covered under the PBI component in 2016 [5]
Eligibility criteria	The poverty status of PBI beneficiaries is determined in accordance with Government Regulation No. 101 of 2013, based on data from the unified database of social assistance recipients maintained by the Poverty Reduction Team (TNP2K) [3]
Eligibility reassessment
Type of benefits	Health insurance
Amount of benefits	The PBI premium paid to beneficiaries by governments (national and local) is IDR23,000 per person per month (in 2016). The basic benefit package provided based on medical indications covers outpatient and inpatient care at primary level, up to tertiary hospital level. JKN does not cover any procedure outside its regulations: cosmetic procedures; general check-up; prosthetic dental care; alternative therapy which is not scientifically proven; and in vitro fertilization; and infertility programmes including treatment for impotence [3]
Payment/delivery frequency	Presidential Decree No. 19 of 2016 determines that PBI premiums are paid by central government through the Ministry of Health to BPJS Health from funds of the State budget transferred from the Ministry of Finance [3]
Benefit delivery mechanism	Health providers are paid based on the services rendered to beneficiaries. Patients are first screened at primary care facilities (puskesmas) and their networks before referral to hospitals if needed. Only in emergency situations are JKN patients allowed to seek treatment directly at a hospital or specialist clinic [3]
Benefit recipients	Beneficiaries themselves
Minimum and maximum duration of benefits
Programme expenditure	IDR25.5 trillion were allocated to the programme by the central government in 2016 [5]
Institutions and agencies involved	The programme is administered by Badan Pelaksana Jaminan Sosial Kesehatan (BPJS-K), the Social Security Agency [3]

Monitoring and evaluation mechanisms and frequency	Administrative responsibility for the public health system is divided among the central, provincial and district government levels. A national information system (SIKNAS) is in place, linking to district-level health information systems (SIKDA), however multiple separate reporting systems operate simultaneously [3]

4. Programme Indonesia Pintar (PIP—Smart Indonesia Programme)

Country	Indonesia
Programme	Programme Indonesia Pintar (PIP—Smart Indonesia Programme)
Geographic area	East Asia and Pacific
Previous programme name	Programme Bantuan Siswa Miskin (BSM)—Cash Transfer Programme for Poor Students [1]
Start date	BSM started in 2008. The programme changed its name in 2014 [2] [3]
Programme objectives	By lowering the enrolment cost barrier through effective targeting, the Government of Indonesia hopes to tackle the low enrolment rates and high dropout probabilities of poor students and eliminate the education gap (World Bank, 2012). PIP also helps the government meet its constitutional guarantees by providing incentives for all children to complete at least a 9-year basic education [1]
Programme typology	Conditional cash transfer
Programme components
Conditionalities	School enrolment and attendance
Targeting mechanisms	Categorical, PMT
Target areas	Nationwide
Target groups	Children and youth
Coverage	The benefit reached 20.4 million children (6-21 years of age) in 2015, which corresponds to 28 percent of the age group [4] The programme reached 19.5 million students in 2016 [1]
Eligibility criteria	School-age children (from 6 to 21 years of age) in families benefitting from social assistance programmes (KPS cardholders, former BSM beneficiaries, PKH beneficiaries), as well as those living in orphanages or who are not going to school or who have dropped out. Eligibility is verified by schools [1]
Eligibility reassessment
Type of benefits	Cash
Amount of benefits	The annual value of the transfer varies by educational level: IDR450,000 (USD35)—primary school; IDR750,000 (USD58)—junior secondary; IDR1million (USD77)—senior secondary level [1]
Payment/delivery frequency	Transfers are distributed between August and September and between March and April in the following calendar year [1]
Benefit delivery mechanism	The list of beneficiaries is announced via decree by both ministries in charge of the programme, who send the recipient list to distric-level educational offices and to the payment institutions: the BNI and BRI banks. Disbursement times and locations are then sent to schools, who notify students or their parents. At the moment, funds are released in cash, but in the future benefits should be disbursed via banks and post offices [1]
Benefit recipients	Students or parents/caregivers [1]
Minimum and maximum duration of benefits	Benefits last for the duration of the child's schooling [1]
Programme expenditure	IDR10.5 trillion (2016) [1]
Institutions and agencies involved	Ministry of Education and Culture and the Ministry of Religion [1]

Monitoring and evaluation mechanisms and frequency	PIP management is carried out independently by several directorates. Internal programme monitoring (on beneficiary selection, transfer disbursements and withdrawal) is thus carried out jointly with provincial and district offices. School attendance is not monitored and no defined monitoring and evaluation procedure feeds back into programme improvement [1]

Country	Indonesia
Programme	Programme Keluarga Harapan (PKH—Family Hope Programme)
Geographic area	East Asia and Pacific
Previous programme name
Start date	2007 [1]
Programme objectives	Alleviating short-term poverty and promoting investments in education and health [2]
Programme typology	Conditional cash transfer
Programme components	After 6 years, if a PKH household is still in a situation of poverty, they may remain in the programme for another three years, complemented by other livelihood support programmes such as the Cooperative Business Group (Kelompok Usaha Bersama—KUBE) [2]
Conditionalities	Pregnant or lactating women: complete four antenatal and two postnatal care visits and take iron tablets during pregnancy; have a skilled attendant during childbirth Children aged 0–6 years: complete childhood immunisation and take vitamin A capsules twice a year; attend monthly/quarterly (0-11 months old/1-6 years old, respectively) growth monitoring check-ups Children aged 7–21 years: enrolment in primary/secondary school with an attendance rate of at least 85 per cent Children aged 16–21 years with incomplete education: enrolment in an educational programme to complete nine years of basic education [1]
Target areas	Nationwide
Target groups	Women, children, elderly people, and people living with disabilities [1] PKH is supposed to reach the 9 per cent poorest households [3]
Coverage	6,000,000 households (2016); the planned coverage by 2019 is of 15 million households [1] [2]
Eligibility criteria	The target of PKH is households and/or poor and vulnerable persons who are registered in the country's Social Assistance Unified Database, maintained by the Poverty Reduction Team (TNP2K), having their health, education, and/or social welfare situation validated and stipulated by the Ministry of Social Affairs. Participating households must have at least one of the following: a pregnant or lactating woman; one or more children below 6 years of age; children aged 7-21 attending primary or secondary school; youth aged 16-21 years who have not yet completed basic education. Since November 2016, severely disabled or elderly people (70 years and older) in these households also receive additional transfers, as other programmes such as ASLUT and ASODKB/ASPDB are expected to be merged into PKH [1] [2] [3] [4]
Eligibility reassessment	After a six-year period, the poverty status of PKH households is reassessed to determine if they will remain in the programme for three more years or not [1]
Type of benefits	Cash

Amount of benefits	IDR1,890,000 minimum annual transfer per household IDR2,000,000 annually for elderly people, people living with disabilities and in Papua IDR3.7 million maximum annual transfer per household (approximately USD284) [1] [3] The benefit amount has decreased in value, from 100 per cent of the individual poverty line per household per month, equivalent to 20 per cent of the expenditure in 2007, to 42 per cent of the individual poverty line, equivalent to 8 per cent of expenditure [3]
Payment/delivery frequency	Quarterly
Benefit delivery mechanism	Banks and post offices (mainly through PT Pos in cash) [1] The rollout of electronic transfers via KKS has started [3]
Benefit recipients	Child caregiver. The mother is the main recipient in most cases [1]
Minimum and maximum duration of benefits	After a six-year period, the poverty status of PKH households is reassessed to determine if they will remain in the programme for three more years, supplemented by other livelihood support programmes such as KUBE-PKH and training in Family Development Sessions [1]
Programme expenditure	IDR11.3 billion (2017) [3]
Institutions and agencies involved	Ministry of Social Affairs (MoSA). The World Bank is currently funding a social assistance reform programme which should impact this programme [1]
Monitoring and evaluation mechanisms and frequency	Routine monitoring regularly gathers data from various forms (household data updates, student attendance verification, health verification, PKH beneficiary complaints, and non-beneficiary complaints), which are input in the PKH PMIS by field workers and establishes a set of performance indicators that are reported hierarchically upwards. Evaluation is selectively carried out to identify causal pathways to achieve programme results and is supposed to occur annually, although it was not carried out in 2016 [1] A call centre for PKH started its operations in February 2018 [3]

3. Student Stipends Programme

Country	Myanmar
Programme	Student Stipends Programme
Geographic area	East Asia and Pacific
Previous programme name
Start date	2009 [1]
Programme objectives	To improve the access of poor students to education and their educational outcomes [2] [3]
Programme typology	Conditional cash transfer
Programme components	An expanded design of this programme is being currently piloted in selected townships with support from the World Bank [3] [4]
Conditionalities	School attendance (the pilot requires 85 per cent attendance for primary and middle school, 75 per cent for high school) and good school performance. Selected students must also progress from grade to grade each year unless they have a certified medical problem which justifies grade repetition [2] [3]
Targeting mechanisms	Categorical, geographical, other poverty/vulnerability assessments
Target areas	Nationwide, though quotas apply per township depending on student population. The pilot is currently being implemented in 55 townships (out of 330 townships in Myanmar) in all 18 states throughout the country [2] [5]
Target groups	Children
Coverage	192,000 poor students (2018) [7]
Eligibility criteria	The priority for eligible students is defined by their poor and orphaned status; second priority is given to students with siblings, whose father has died. Except for those in the first grade, students are also assessed based on their 'intellect' and 'good moral character'. However, selection procedures in each township are not standardised. The pilot targets poor and vulnerable students in grades 5-11 from the poorest and lowest performing townships in terms of education. Priority is also given to orphans, single parents and children with many siblings [2] [3] [4]
Eligibility reassessment
Type of benefits	Cash
Amount of benefits	Regular stipends programme (amount per month): Primary level (Grades 1-5)—MMK5,000 Lower secondary level (Grades 6-9)—MML6,000 Upper secondary level (Grades 10-11)—MMK8,000 Pilot stipends programme (amount per month): Primary level—MMK5,000 Middle school—MMK8,000 High school—MMK10,000 [2] [3]
Payment/delivery frequency	Monthly [6]
Benefit delivery mechanism	School heads provide the stipends to the beneficiaries' parents or caregivers [6]
Benefit recipients	Parents or caregivers [6]
Minimum and maximum duration of benefits	The benefit must cease if the student dies, misses too much school or leaves school. However, if student is not promoted to the next grade due to health problems, the student must have a health certificate signed by the Township Medical Officer to be considered eligible for the benefit while repeating the grade. In the case of the pilot programme, selected students receive the stipends for four consecutive years. Stipends are delivered during the school year (10 months per year) [2] [3]

Programme expenditure	Regular programme: MMK651 million (2013-2014 academic year). Pilot programme: USD7 million (expected budget for 2017/18) [2] [3]
Institutions and agencies involved	Ministry of Education and World Bank. The programme also receives funding from the government of Australia [1] [3]
Monitoring and evaluation mechanisms and frequency	MoE's monitoring and evaluation is working together with World Bank and Save the Children Myanmar to evaluate the programme both qualitatively and quantitatively. School and household surveys and spot-checks are also conducted [3] [5]

2. Child Grant

Country	Nepal
Programme	Child Grant
Geographic area	South Asia
Previous programme name
Start date	2009 [1]
Programme objectives	Social security allowances in Nepal (including the old-age pension, single woman's pension, child grant, disability grant, and endangered ethnicity grant) aim to assist groups considered socially and/or economically vulnerable. The child grant in particular was implemented first to improve children's nutritional outcomes [1] [2]
Programme typology	Unconditional cash transfer
Programme components	A complementary programme to inform and raise awareness for the child grant and the infant and young children feeding (IYCF) programme has been implemented in the five districts in Karnali zone with the support of UNICEF. Birth registration campaigns have also been conducted to facilitate access to this service at the ward level [3]
Conditionalities
Targeting mechanisms	Categorical, geographical [3]
Target areas	Nationwide (the grant is delivered to all children in the Karnali zone and targets poor dalit households in the rest of the country) [4]
Target groups	Children
Coverage	529,992 children by 2017-18 [6]
Eligibility criteria	All children in the Karnali zone are eligible for the grant, from birth until the age of 5. In other regions of the country, all poor dalit children under the age of 5 are eligible. In all cases, birth registration is required and a maximum of two children per family may participate in the programme [2] [3]
Eligibility reassessment
Type of benefits	Cash
Amount of benefits	NPR400 per child per month, up to a maximum of NPR800 per family/mother [2]
Payment/delivery frequency	Benefits are distributed by Village Development Committees (VDCs) and municipalities every four months [2]
Benefit delivery mechanism	VDCs and municipalities distribute the money. The government plans to expand Postal Saving Banks to all local levels and use them as the delivery mechanism for the country's social security allowances [2] [5]
Benefit recipients	Child's caregiver [1]
Minimum and maximum duration of benefits
Programme expenditure	Less than 0.1 per cent of GDP (2016). The estimated budget for all social security allowances was of NPR38,735,182 for the 2017-18 fiscal year [5] [7]
Institutions and agencies involved	Department of Civil Registration (DOCR) under the Ministry of Federal Affairs and Local Development (MOFALD). UNICEF has provided technical support to the programme's implementation and the World Bank is currently providing financing under the Strengthening Systems for Social Protection and Civil Registration Project, which should impact all of the country's social security allowances [2]

Monitoring and evaluation mechanisms and frequency	Social Security District Coordination Committees, in coordination with District Development Committees, are in charge of monitoring the programme. MOFALD has already developed a management and information system to collect administrative information on the grant. Moreover, a number of monitoring and evaluation measures are foreseen under the Strengthening Systems for Social Protection and Civil Registration Project, including three rounds of beneficiary surveys, as well as activities supporting citizen engagement and accountability for the country's social security allowances [2] [3] [8]

PAKISTAN

1. Benazir Income Support Programme (BISP) or National Cash Transfer Programme (NCTP)

Country	Pakistan
Programme	Benazir Income Support Programme (BISP) or National Cash Transfer Programme (NCTP)
Geographic area	South Asia
Previous programme name
Start date	2008 [1]
Programme objectives	To protect poor people from the adverse impacts of the food, fuel and financial crises (short-term goal) and to provide a minimum income support package to chronically poor people and those who are more likely to be affected negatively by future economic shocks (long-term goal) [2]
Programme typology	Unconditional cash transfer; conditional cash transfer
Programme components	BISP is composed of a core unconditional cash transfer, which in 2012 was complemented by Waseela-e-Taleem (WeT), a conditional cash transfer. In the past, there have been pilots for complementary initiatives such as microloans, skills training, and health insurance. However, it was decided to discontinue these pilots and rather explore linkages with other agencies/programmes delivering similar services [3]
Conditionalities	WeT: school enrolment with an attendance rate of 70 per cent until completion of primary education [4]
Targeting mechanisms	PMT [3]
Target areas	Core unconditional cash transfer: Nationwide WeT: implemented in 32 districts (to be extended to 50 districts in 2017) [3]
Target groups	Low income families, women and children [1]
Coverage	5.4 million BISP beneficiaries and 1.9 children under WeT (2018) [5]
Eligibility criteria	A poverty score card-based survey was applied nationwide, which included questions on household composition and members' age, education, employment and disability status, nature of dwelling, and moveable and fixed assets. A poverty score was generated for each surveyed household (from 1–100) and those below the established cut-off score of 16.17 were considered eligible for BISP [3]
Eligibility reassessment
Type of benefits	Cash
Amount of benefits	Core UCT: PKR4,834 per quarter (2016-2017) [3] WeT: PKR750 per quarter per child [4]
Payment/delivery frequency	Quartely [3] [4]
Benefit delivery mechanism	5 different payment mechanisms are currently employed: Pakistan Post money orders; smart card payment dispersal system; mobile banking system; debit card system; and bio-metric verification system (BVS) [5] Most beneficiaries receive transfers through the BISP debit card and people in remote locations can receive transfers via money orders [3]
Benefit recipients	Female representatives of eligible families [3]
Minimum and maximum duration of benefits
Programme expenditure	Budget allocation: PKR115 billion (for the 2017-2018 fiscal year) About 0.4 per cent of GDP (in 2014-15) [6]
Institutions and agencies involved	The programme is implemented by the BISP agency, which operates autonomously under the Ministry of Finance. The World Bank is currently providing financial support to this programme under the Pakistan National Social Protection Program-For-Results project [3]

Monitoring and evaluation mechanisms and frequency	An independent internal audit unit reports to the BISP Board, which is responsible for programme management and broad oversight to ensure its transparency. The Auditor General of Pakistan (AGP) is responsible for the annual financial audit. Supervision of field offices is conducted on visits and reviews of their reports. The programme also relies on a management information system and regular third-party reviews and impact evaluations of the core cash transfer have been conducted [3]

2. Electricity Subsidies

Country	Pakistan
Programme	Electricity Subsidies
Geographic area	South Asia
Previous programme name
Start date	The regulation of the power industry started with the creation of the National Electric Power Regulatory Authority (NEPRA) in 1998, whose responsibilities include setting prices [1]
Programme objectives	To cover the gap between the cost of electricity and the government-set tariff for end consumers [1]
Programme typology	Electricity subsidies
Programme components	The Tariff Differential Subsidy (TDS) is the main subsidy, consisting of a government transfer to the power distribution companies (DISCOs) covering the difference between the electricity provision costs and the Uniform Minimum Tariff (UMF) established at the national level. Moreover, certain categories of consumers are charged an even lower tariff than the UMF [2]
Conditionalities
Targeting mechanisms	Categorical
Target areas	Nationwide
Target groups	Poor households
Coverage
Eligibility criteria	Households pay different prices according to electricity usage: from those that consume up to 50 kWh per month (those who benefit from the 'lifeline tariff') up to those that consume over 700 kWh per month [3]
Eligibility reassessment
Type of benefits	Electricity
Amount of benefits	Unit cost of the monthly residential tariffs (in 2015-2016) per monthly consumption level: 0-50 kWh: PKR2 (lifeline tariff) 1-100 kWh: PKR5.79 101-200 kWh: PKR8.11 201-300 kWh: PKR10.20 301-700 kWh: PKR16.00 700+ kWh: PKR18.00 However, there is a minimum monthly charge of PKR75, which means that only households that consume between 38 and 50 kWh per month actually benefit from the lifeline tariff [3]
Payment/delivery frequency	Monthly [3]
Benefit delivery mechanism	The government transfers the money to the electricity companies that provide consumers with the service [2]
Benefit recipients	Beneficiaries themselves
Minimum and maximum duration of benefits
Programme expenditure	0.6 percent of GDP in the 2015/16 fiscal year. Subsidies for the lifeline tariff comprise a small part of overall subsidy expenditure (8.5 per cent) [2]
Institutions and agencies involved	National Electric Power Regulatory Authority (NEPRA) and power distribution companies (DISCOs) [2]
Monitoring and evaluation mechanisms and frequency

4. Pakistan FATA Temporarily Displaced Persons Emergency Recovery Project

Country	Pakistan
Programme	Pakistan FATA Temporarily Displaced Persons Emergency Recovery Project
Geographic area	South Asia
Previous programme name
Start date	2015 [1]
Programme objectives	To support the early recovery of families affected by the military crisis; to promote child health; and to strengthen the government's service delivery capacity in affected federally-administered tribal areas [1]
Programme typology	Unconditional and conditional cash transfers
Programme components	The project is composed of the Early Recovery Package—including the Early Recovery Grant (ERG) and the Livelihood Support Grant (LSG)—and the Child Wellness Grant (CWG). Moreover, financing by the World Bank was meant to support the government in delivering services to affected areas [1]
Conditionalities	CWG is conditional on attendance in health awareness sessions at one-stop shops [1]
Targeting mechanisms	Geographical and categorical targeting
Target areas	Federally-administered tribal areas (FATA) [1]
Target groups	Temporarily Displaced Persons (TPD) and children
Coverage	326,000 households eligible for the ERG and LSG, and 300,000 households eligible for the CWG were estimated in 2017 [1]
Eligibility criteria	Registered TDP households (with both temporary and permanent addresses) from five FATA Agencies (North Waziristan, South Waziristan, Orakzai, Kurram and Khyber) are eligible for the programme. Moreover, all households from the same areas, with children aged 0-2 years old, are eligible for the Child Wellness Grant, irrespective of their TPD status [2]
Eligibility reassessment
Type of benefits	Cash
Amount of benefits	PKR35,000 (approximately USD350) per family—ERG aiming to assist beneficiaries' resettlement and offset their transportation costs PKR4,000 (approximately USD40) per month for four months per family—LSG to provide subsistence support PKR7,500 (approximately USD75) divided in three equal installments—CWG paid upon families' attendance to health awareness sessions [1]
Payment/delivery frequency	ERG: one-time transfer LSG: monthly CWG: paid in three instalments [1]
Benefit delivery mechanism	The National Bank of Pakistan is the payment service provider. Beneficiaries withdraw cash from their accounts [3]
Benefit recipients	Heads of households [2]
Minimum and maximum duration of benefits	The project is expected to end in 2019 [1]
Programme expenditure	World Bank's original financing: USD75 million. World Bank's additional financing: USD114 million (until 2019). The government has also contributed with USD10 million to finance this programme [1]

Institutions and agencies involved	Economic Affairs Division (EAD) (overall coordination and monitoring of the project); National Database and Registration Authority (NADRA) (implementing agency); FATA government agencies (FATA Secretariat, Law and Order Department, Return and Rehabilitation Unit, Planning and Development Department, Department of Health, DoH; FATA Disaster Management Authority (FDMA). Steering Committee: EAD; Ministry of Finance; Ministry of States and Frontier Regions; Support and Management Secretariat; and the allied government departments' FATA agencies [2]
Monitoring and evaluation mechanisms and frequency	EAD is responsible for the project monitoring. The project is supported by a management information system developed and managed by NADRA. An independent firm conducts spot checks and process evaluation [1]

3. Pantawid Pamilya, Pantawid Pamilyang Pilipino Programme (4Ps)

Country	Philippines
Programme	Pantawid Pamilya, Pantawid Pamilyang Pilipino Programme (4Ps)
Geographic area	East Asia and Pacific
Previous programme name	Ahon Pamilyang Pilipino (pilot programme) [1]
Start date	2007 [1]
Programme objectives	The programme aims to break the intergenerational cycle of poverty by encouraging households to invest in their children's health and education [2]
Programme typology	Conditional cash transfer
Programme components	In 2012, the Modified Conditional Cash Transfer Programme (MCCT) was launched to reach homeless street families (HSF), indigenous peoples (IPs) in geographically isolated and disadvantaged areas (GIDA) and families in need of special protection (FNPS, including those affected by disasters), thus addressing some limitations of the regular conditional cash transfer programme. This intervention differs in terms of its targeting, conditionalities, benefits and modes of implementation [3] [4] Free health insurance and access to primary health care as well as participation in the Sustainable Livelihood Programme (SLP) are also available to Pantawid beneficiaries. SLP provides micro-enterprise development and employment facilitation activities [5] [6]
Conditionalities	Education: children from 3 to 5 years old must be enrolled in pre-school or day care. Children from 6 to 18 years old must be enrolled in school and keep an attendance rate of 85 per cent of school days per month Health: children below 5 years old must attend monthly visits to health facilities; children 6 to 14 years old must take deworming medicine 2 times per year; pregnant women must attend trimestral health checks during pregnancy and have a delivery attended by a skilled health worker; the benefit recipient or spouse must attend monthly family development sessions (FDS) [2] MCCT participant families are required to send their children to school either in formal or by alternative delivery mode of learning; seek health care services in accordance with Department of Health (DOH) protocols; and attend Family Development Sessions [4]
Targeting mechanisms	Categorical, PMT
Target areas	Nationwide
Target groups	Children and pregnant women
Coverage	Regular CCT: 4.4 million households (2018) MCCT: 235,289 beneficiaries (2018) [10]
Eligibility criteria	Beneficiaries are poor households with pregnant women and/or children up to 18 years old. They are selected through the National Household Targeting System (NHTS— Listahanan). [2] The MCCT covers households with pregnant women and/or children aged 0 to 18 years old who are not registered in the NHTS, but who are poor and vulnerable [4]
Eligibility reassessment
Type of benefits	Cash, training and services

Amount of benefits	The total amount varies according to household composition and compliance with the programme's conditionalities: Education monthly grant (provided 10 months per year up to a maximum of 3 children per household): PHP300 for children 3 to 14 years old and PHP500 for children of 15 to 18 years of age Health monthly grant (provided every month): PHP500.00 per household Rice subsidy: as of 2017, beneficiary households are entitled to an additional cash grant serving as rice subsidy in the amount of PHP7,200 per year or PHP600 per month per household Microfinance services and training are available to participants of the SLP programme [2] [5] [6] [7] [8] MCCT beneficiaries are also eligible for shelter assistance and specific incentives in terms of access to jobs and livelihood opportunities or community income-generating activities [4]
Payment/delivery frequency	Payments are made every two months [2] [3]
Benefit delivery mechanism	Where feasible, beneficiaries receive a Land Bank of the Philippines (LBP) debit card, which they can use in ATM machines. In areas not covered by this banking system, off-site payments are made by LBP, Globe GCash Remit (a mobile payment provider), local rural banks and cooperatives are also able to process the payments [2]
Benefit recipients	The recipient is usually the mother in the family [2]
Minimum and maximum duration of benefits	Regular CCT: Children are eligible up to their 18th birthday [2] MCCT: Participation lasts from six months to one year, provided that eligibility conditions remain the same as well as the compliance with conditionalities. For FNSP and IP in GIDA, participation lasts for two years. Specific criteria and requirements for mainstreaming MCCT beneficiaries into the regular conditional cash transfer programme include the enumeration of household into the NHTS system with a poor status within the same eligibility criteria as the regular programme, and a case-by-case analysis of their capacity to comply with the programme's conditionalities [4] [9]
Programme expenditure	0.4 per cent of GDP (2016). The programme has a budget of PHP 89,408,303,000 for 2018 [5] [11]
Institutions and agencies involved	The Department of Social Welfare and Development (DSWD) is the main implementer. A National Advisory Committee (NAC), composed of the Departments of Health (DOH), Education (DepEd), Interior and Local Government (DILG) and Local Government Units (LGUs), among others, acts as the highest policy-making body for Pantawid . The World Bank is currently providing funds for the government under the Social Welfare Development and Reform Project II, which should contribute to this programme. The programme has received technical assistance from other development partners, including the ADB and UNICEF, who provides technical assistance for the implementation of the MCCT [1] [2] [8] [12]
Monitoring and evaluation mechanisms and frequency	Partner government agencies contribute to the compliance monitoring process. Rigorous impact evaluations have also been conducted and regular monitoring and 'spot checks' are carried out by third parties. The programme also relies on an advanced management and information system [13]

Start date	The programme started as Samurdhi in 1995 and was renamed into Divineguma in 2014 [1]
Programme objectives	The programme focuses on the objective of poverty alleviation [1]
Programme typology	Unconditional cash transfer
Programme components	The programme encompasses a monthly cash transfer, social security/insurance contributions and housing assistance, as well as nutrition (Poshana Malla), microfinance and livelihood development components [2] [3] [4]
Conditionalities
Targeting mechanisms	Means-tested, PMT (expected to be implemented towards the end of 2018) [5] [6]
Target areas	Nationwide
Target groups	Poor households
Coverage	1,453,078 families (December 2015) [2]
Eligibility criteria	Eligible beneficiary households should earn less than LKR1,500 per month, however there is no clear selection criteria [1]
Eligibility reassessment
Type of benefits	Cash
Amount of benefits	Benefits range from LKR420 to LKR3,500 per month per household LKR420 to 'empowered households/low income households LKR1,500 to households with 1 to 2 members LKR2,500 to households with 3 to 5 members LKR3,500 to households with 6 members or more Compulsory savings, social security and housing fund contributions are deducted from these values; they can only be withdrawn when the beneficiary reaches 60 years of age, needs the money due to severe illness, or to make an investment [1] [5] [6] [7]
Payment/delivery frequency	Monthly [5]

7. Social Health Insurance (SHI, non-contributory component)

Country	Viet Nam
Programme	Social Health Insurance
Geographic area	East Asia and Pacific
Previous programme name
Start date	The Social Health Insurance (SHI) was created in 1992 and has expanded its coverage over time, with universal coverage being enshrined in the country's 2013 Constitution. The Health Care Fund for the Poor (HCFP) was created in 2003 and from 2009 onwards it was merged with SHI [1] [2] [3]
Programme objectives	Achieving universal health coverage [2]
Programme typology	Non-contributory health insurance
Programme components	The programme has different enrolment modalities for different groups: Workers in formal sectors Pensioners People on working capacity loss allowance Poor people, minorities, and children under 6 years of age Near-poor people Pupils and students Workers in informal sectors Other members of households The poor, minorities, and children under 6 years of age have their premiums covered by the government; near-poor people, pupils and students have 7 per cent of their premiums subsidised [1]
Conditionalities
Targeting mechanisms	Categorical, PMT [4]
Target areas	Nationwide
Target groups	Poor people, near-poor people, children, ethnic groups, other social assistance beneficiaries
Coverage	By 2020, the government aims to reach 90 per cent of the population, and 95 per cent by 2025 [2] In 2017, the programme covered 83.8 per cent of the population (78.2 million people) [5]
Eligibility criteria	Poor people, near-poor people, children under six, school children, ethnic minorities in disadvantaged regions, lower income farmers and social assistance beneficiaries are entitled to receive subsidised health insurance [2] The poverty line is centrally determined, but reflects regional specificities. The poor and the near-poor reach 100 and 150 per cent respectively of this line, which in rural areas is around VND400,000 to VND520,000 per month (USD20 to USD25) for rural areas, and around VND500,000 to VND650,000 per month (USD25 to USD37) for urban areas [3]
Eligibility reassessment	Though the income status of households is to be re-certified yearly, households transitioning out of poverty can retain their health benefits for up to three years [3]
Type of benefits	Health care services

Amount of benefits	Poor, minorities and children under 6: Premium: 4.5 per cent of the monthly minimum wage Subsidy rate: 100 per cent by the government Near poor: Premium: 4.5 per cent of monthly minimum wage Subsidy rate: 70 per cent subsidy by the government Pupils and students: Premium: 3 per cent of monthly minimum wage Subsidy rate: 30 per cent subsidy by the government [1] The benefit package includes ambulatory care, rehabilitation, advanced diagnostics, and curative services [2]
Payment/delivery frequency	Upon demand
Benefit delivery mechanism	The poor are registered by Provincial Social Security and their cards are printed and sent to the District Social Security (DSS), which delivers them to the beneficiaries. Near-poor people go through a similar process, though they must pay their premium contribution to DSS before receiving their cards; they can also register in-person at VSS offices [3] Services are delivered at health facilities selected by the government [1]
Benefit recipients	Patients
Minimum and maximum duration of benefits	Households transitioning out of poverty can retain their health benefits for up to three years [3]
Programme expenditure	The social health insurance fund had an expenditure of VND101,201 billion (VND100,891 for mandatory insurance) in 2015 [6]
Institutions and agencies involved	Ministry of Health and Vietnam Social Security (VSS) [7] The list of poor and near-poor households is provided by MOLISA [8]
Monitoring and evaluation mechanisms and frequency	The Ministry of Health is in charge of monitoring and evaluating SHI as well as reporting on the scheme's performance to the National Assembly of Vietnam. However, in-depth reporting on equity and efficiency is not conducted [3]

The caregiver/relative must inform the Fund immediately. If an elderly person passes away, his/her benefit payment shall cease immediately upon notification of death. Caregivers are required to inform the Fund promptly [2]
Programme expenditure	If all eligible beneficiaries claimed the benefits, total expenditure during the 2014-15 fiscal year would have been TOP3.1 million; Given an expected 60 per cent take-up rate, it would have been TOP1.86 million [1]
Involved institutions and agencies	National Retirement Benefits Fund [1]
Monitoring and evaluation mechanisms and frequency	The National Retirement Benefits Funds conducts a follow up every month after the benefit is collected by beneficiaries. This is to verify any changes in the situation of the benefit recipient [2]
