Over the past two years socialprotection.org has shown considerable growth, becoming a reference for practitioners, policymakers and researchers in the field of social protection. This is thanks to the engagement of our users, members, stakeholders and partners who have been instrumental to the development of the platform, and to whom we would like to express our heartfelt thanks. Their active involvement has seen the emergence and consolidation of a community of social protection practitioners. This involvement represents the foundation in realising the platform’s mission of supporting knowledge exchange and capacity building on social protection around the world.

The development of socialprotection.org could not have been achieved without the support of our funders: the Australian Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade (DFAT), and the Deutsche Gesellschaft für Internationale Zusammenarbeit (GIZ) GmbH, on behalf of the German Federal Ministry of Economic Development and Cooperation (BMZ), to whom we extend our sincere gratitude.

We also acknowledge the support of the United Nations Development Working Group of the G20 and the Social Protection Inter-Agency Cooperation Board (SPIAC-B), as well as the International Policy Centre for Inclusive Growth of the United Nations Development Programme in Brazil (IPC-IG/UNDP Brazil), for developing and hosting the platform.
Introduction

socialprotection.org was inspired by the will to provide social protection practitioners, policymakers and researchers with the most comprehensive and up-to-date content on the topic, and encourage networking and engagement. Following the creation of a prototype of the platform in 2012, DFAT championed the further development of the project at the end of 2013.

An official agreement between the IPC-IG and DFAT was signed in January 2014, to develop the prototype. On 12 September 2015, socialprotection.org was launched on the United Nations International Day for South-South Cooperation, and over the past two years the platform has enjoyed considerable progress. In December 2015, GIZ joined DFAT in funding the development of the platform.

Today, the platform directs access to a range of social protection related content from individuals, bilateral and multilateral cooperation agencies, non-governmental organisations, research centres, government bodies and academia from around the world. Thanks to its interactive features, members can share and connect with each other.

Since its launch, socialprotection.org has brought together more than 2,400 members and provided access to over 2,900 publications. It has organised 42 webinars in cooperation with numerous partners, and hosts 31 multi-language Online Communities. In the past 12 months, it has developed a brand new Virtual Campus, hosting self-paced and instructor-led e-courses, a new Blog area that has published more than 60 posts, an improved Stakeholders page and a relaunched Programme Profile section.

This second anniversary of the platform presents an opportunity to highlight the collaborative progress achieved by the socialprotection.org team, its partners, members and funders. To this end, this Annual Report provides an overview of socialprotection.org’s achievements, features, content, communications strategy, and outreach and engagement activities, with a focus on the period from September 2016 to August 2017. It also presents the way forward for the platform, highlighting future developments and challenges.

The way forward

The socialprotection.org team
Social protection can be understood as a set of policies and programmes aimed at supporting individuals and families to deal with vulnerabilities throughout their life cycle and become more resilient to crises and shocks. It favours social inclusion and the building of human and social capital through income and consumption smoothing, ensuring access to basic goods and services and stimulating inclusive production through the development of capacities, skills, rights and opportunities.

In 2016, the United Nations launched the new Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) agenda, representing a renewed approach to promoting global development and inclusive growth by tackling global poverty, inequality, gender issues, climate change and other urgent development challenges.

Social protection is reflected in the SDGs, identifying its fundamental role in combatting poverty and reducing inequalities. Social protection systems feature prominently in SDG Goal 1 — End poverty in all its forms everywhere and 1.3 — Implement nationally appropriate social protection systems and measures for all, including social protection floors, and to achieve substantial coverage of the poor and the vulnerable by 2030.

Other leading global stakeholders are on-board with championing social protection policies and programmes. The World Bank and the International Labour Organisation (ILO), with the support of the SPIAC-B members, have committed to using their individual and collective resources and influence to support countries in their move towards providing universal social protection coverage. Their Universal Social Protection Initiative endorses the consensus that social protection is a primary development priority and an essential part of National Development Strategies to achieve inclusive growth and sustainable development with equitable social outcomes.¹

Universal coverage and access to social protection are recognised as central to ending poverty and boosting shared prosperity by 2030. They also represent the World Bank’s twin goals and are at the core of the ILO’s mandate. The realisation of universal social protection has also been endorsed in international statements by the African Union (AU), the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN), the European Commission, the G20, and the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD).

Over the past decade, social protection programmes have been introduced in many developing countries to tackle poverty and inequality. Today, nearly 30 low- and middle-income countries (LICs and MICs) have universal social protection programmes in place, and over 100 countries are scaling-up their social protection programmes. In this context, socialprotection.org aims to become a key instrument in fostering knowledge exchange and capacity building on social protection, to support these initiatives and the development agenda at large.

Over the past year socialprotection.org has amassed some 1,000 new members from around the world, almost doubling the total to more than 2,400 individuals. Our members come from a diverse range of countries: Sub-Saharan Africa (30.5 per cent), Europe and Central Asia (21.6 per cent), and Latin America and the Caribbean (21 per cent) are the most highly represented regions. The platform directs access to over 2,900 publications, with the majority having been published between 2014 and 2017, reflecting a commitment to showcasing the latest content in the social protection arena.

We have also organised an impressive number of webinars, from 15 in the first year to 27 in the second year. We have therefore organised 42 webinars in total, together with partner institutions, featuring a broad range of expert panellists. Over 2,700 individuals have attended in total, representing 128 countries. Webinars are the primary means of generating active knowledge-sharing and engagement among the platform’s audience.

This year we have seen the consolidation and continuation of the platform’s various Webinar Series. The Interagency Social Protection Assessments (ISPA) Tool Webinar Series has featured six webinars, in both English and Spanish, exploring how to use the tool in various contexts, to ensure the delivery of quality social protection systems. The Brazil Learning Initiative for a World Without Poverty (WWP) Webinar Series has featured five webinars, sharing insights into Brazil’s conditional cash transfer programmes, evaluation mechanisms, and approach to information dissemination. HelpAge International and the IPC-IG’s Fiscal space for social protection: knowledge sharing initiative Webinar Series, has proved especially popular among audiences over the past three webinars of the series.

Updates

- 31 Online Communities from 692 to 2,251 followers in one year
- Facebook from 648 to 1,275 followers in one year
- + 680 stakeholders
- 2,052 newsletter subscribers

New features

- Blog - 67 posts since February 2017
- New Virtual Campus (hosting self-paced and instructor-led e-courses)
- New Stakeholders page
- New Programme Profile page
Online Community features prominently, with 65 members. The success of the Community can be attributed to the corresponding Social Protection in humanitarian, fragile and risk-prone contexts Webinar Series, which has featured four highly attended webinars. Likewise, DFAT and GIZ’s Social Protection for Employment – Community (SPEC), with 95 members, has proven hugely successful thanks, in part, to the corresponding Linking Social Protection to Sustainable Employment Webinar Series, which has showcased the experiences of the Philippines and Bangladesh.

The platform has also seen a considerable expansion in its social media reach and engagement. Facebook has reached over 2,200 followers, more than tripling the 692 followers we had in August 2016. The platform’s Twitter account has also increased its followers substantially, jumping from 648 in August 2016, to over 1,200 by August 2017.

HIGHLIGHTS

This past year saw the development of new features and the updating of existing ones:

- A notification system has been introduced that alerts members via e-mail to new content on the platform. This is especially useful to the Online Communities members have joined, as they are alerted when new comments, documents and events are posted.

- A new administrative interface now allows the socialprotection.org team to extract data corresponding to the platform’s features and content. It supports streamlined and accurate knowledge management as well as ease of engagement with the platform’s members.

- The exciting new Blog feature presents short-form written content, addressing a wide range of topics related to social protection, in multiple languages. The Blog currently showcases contributions from platform members, submissions from invited experts, posts by socialprotection.org Ambassadors, as well as webinar summaries produced by the socialprotection.org team.

- The new homepage now features the platform’s latest content, and is updated twice a week. Each of the four action-tabs includes a drop-down menu, linking to its respective features.

- The Virtual Campus has been re-launched, and now features self-paced and instructor-led courses offered by a range of organisations. Students and experts in the field of social protection can register for and participate in tailored online courses. An integrated Moodle based learning management system was also launched to host e-courses that can be elaborated in partnership with stakeholders.

- The platform has been translated and will soon be made available in French.

- Users are now able to discover more on social protection programmes from around the world, under the massively expanded Programme Profile section. The Stakeholders and Members searches have also been considerably expanded and updated.
Over the past year socialprotection.org has enjoyed considerable progress. We will now present some highlights pertaining to the platform’s content, from its three main areas: Discover, Connect and Learn.

Throughout the platform, content is categorised according to our tailored social protection taxonomy. ‘Social protection programmes’, ‘social protection topics’, and ‘cross-cutting areas’ represent the core categories by which content is classified across the platform.

Each category is divided into comprehensive sub-categories. Therefore, the increase in content and proportion of content that has emerged over the past year according to these sub-categories provides insights into the key issue areas of the social protection community, as well as areas that require greater attention.

DISCOVER

The Discover area allows users to search the platform’s various databases. The Publications area directs access to the documents of partner sites and member uploads. The Programmes area provides insight into individual social protection programmes from around the world. The Members area allows one to search among the platform’s registered members. The Stakeholders area allows one to search institutions that are directly or indirectly related to social protection, and view their content.

> PUBLICATIONS

socialprotection.org currently hosts 2,919 publications. 31 per cent of this content has been uploaded by members. The Publications search is a key feature of the platform, hosting the majority of content.

Publications are relatively evenly distributed among sub-Saharan Africa (28 per cent), Latin America & Caribbean (25 per cent), and South and East Asia (21 per cent), thus representing much of the developing world. Kenya and Zambia are the most represented African countries, while India, Indonesia and Brazil are highly represented in their respective regions.
The majority of the publications classified by social protection programmes are related to ‘social assistance’ (61 per cent), of which 75 per cent refer to ‘social transfers’. 26 per cent of the publications refer to ‘social insurance’, and 20 per cent to ‘labour market programmes/public works/productive inclusion’.

2. The categories that publications are organised into are not mutually exclusive, meaning that one publication can refer to more than one region.

3. The categories publications are organised into are not mutually exclusive, meaning that one publication can belong to multiple categories at the same time.
The most prominent cross-cutting area is ‘poverty’ (54 per cent), followed by ‘labour market’ (33 per cent), ‘risk and vulnerability’ (28 per cent) — which increased significantly this past year — and ‘health’ (27 per cent).

Regarding language, most of our publications are in English (87 per cent), while seven per cent are in French and five per cent in Spanish. These numbers should become more evenly distributed once the platform is translated into other languages. There are also a few publications in Arabic, Bahasa, German, Portuguese and Turkish.

> PROGRAMMES

The Programmes feature allows users to search through profiles of social protection programmes from around the world. Each programme is presented in a table format, displaying key information, such as the objectives, targeting method, coverage and programme expenditure.

There are a total of 124 programme profiles on the platform. One is from Mexico while the rest are from African countries: 89 per cent are from sub-Saharan Africa and 11 per cent are from the Middle East & North Africa. These profiles were produced in 2015-2016, based on content from the publication, ‘Social protection in Africa: inventory of non-contributory programmes’. Presently, the socialprotection.org team is in the process of compiling Asian programme profiles, with the support of DFAT.

4. The categories that programmes are organised into are not mutually exclusive, meaning that one programme can belong to multiple categories at the same time.
Most of the programme profiles are classified as ‘social assistance’ (83 per cent), of which 91 per cent are ‘social transfers’, 12 per cent are ‘subsidies’, and 7 per cent are ‘social support services’. Of the total number of programmes related to ‘social transfers’, 80 per cent are ‘cash transfers’ (conditional and unconditional) and 22 per cent are ‘in-kind transfers’ (conditional and unconditional). Note that the categories of classification are not mutually exclusive, meaning that, for example, one programme can be classified as both a cash transfer and in-kind transfer.

Among the programme profiles included on the platform, the most common targeting method is ‘categorical targeting’ (59 per cent), followed by ‘geographical targeting’ (36 per cent) and ‘community-based targeting’ (35 per cent).

> MEMBERS

The number of new socialprotection.org members has consistently increased over the past year. Since the platform’s launch, it has attracted more than 2,400 specialised and dedicated members from all around the world.

5. The categories publications are organised into are not mutually exclusive, meaning that one publication can belong to multiple categories at the same time.
Over the past 12 months, growth in membership has been substantial: from 1,416 in the beginning of September 2016, to 2,495 registered members by 31 August 2017. This is thanks to a proactive and comprehensive communications strategy, as well as the support and collaboration of partner institutions who promote the platform among their networks.

WHERE DO MEMBERS COME FROM?

socialprotection.org aims to have equal regional representation among its members. Accordingly, it has initiated tailored regional communication strategies, primarily focusing on sub-Saharan Africa and Asia. 30.5 per cent of members are from Sub-Saharan Africa, 21.6 per cent are from Europe and Central Asia, 21 per cent are from Latin America and the Caribbean, 9.1 per cent are from East Asia and the Pacific, 7.3 per cent are from North America, and 6.7 per cent are from South Asia. The substantial representation of African members supports fruitful knowledge sharing between LICs and MICs, meeting a primary objective of the platform.

WHAT ARE THE PROFESSIONAL POSITIONS OF SOCIALPROTECTION.ORG’S MEMBERS?

- Specialist/Expert: 20%
- Researcher/Academic: 16%
- Project Manager: 14%
- Advisor: 13%
- Student/Intern/Volunteer: 13%
- Analyst: 9%
- Consultant: 9%
- Evaluation & Monitoring: 7%
- Others: 6%
The platform is home to members spanning a wide range of professional profiles. This variety is crucial to the platform's knowledge sharing objectives. The more diverse the profiles of the platform's members, the richer knowledge exchange can be. Most members are ‘specialists/experts’ (20 per cent), ‘researchers/academics’ (16 per cent), and ‘project managers’ (14 per cent). This demonstrates how the platform caters to a variety of users with a range of interests and demands.

WHAT INSTITUTIONS DO PLATFORM MEMBERS REPRESENT?

‘International organisations’, of which many are United Nations organisations, are most highly represented (30 per cent). ‘Government’ also sees high representation (21 per cent), which is a very positive result, as the socialprotection.org team has made a deliberate effort to reach and support policymakers in LICs and MICs. Other important stakeholders are represented, such as ‘research/academia’ (20 per cent) and ‘NGOs’ (9 per cent). This stakeholder diversity further reinforces a beneficial knowledge sharing experience among members.

MOST REPRESENTED INSTITUTIONS

Over the past year there was a considerable increase in the number of members from the most represented institutions in the platform, which reflects increasing engagement of key stakeholders. Within a year, we attracted 55 new members from UNICEF, totalling 131; 22 new members from the World Bank Group, totalling 91; and 22 new members from the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations (FAO), totalling 40 members. Other significant members from prominent international organisations are well represented, as shown in the table above. The Brazilian Ministry of Social Development (MDS) is the most represented government organisation, with 24 members.

> STAKEHOLDERS

The platform hosts the profiles of 681 stakeholders, who are either directly or indirectly related to social protection. The majority fall under the category of ‘government’ (42 per cent) or ‘research centres and academia’ (22 per cent).

⁶ The categories that stakeholders are organised into are not mutually exclusive, meaning the same institution may have a focus on more than one region.
‘Poverty’ (28 per cent), ‘health’ (26 per cent), ‘labour market’ (23 per cent) and ‘social inclusion’ (21 per cent), are the cross-cutting areas that most of the platform’s stakeholders address, keeping in mind institutions usually address multiple areas. ‘Labour regulation’ (31 per cent), ‘financing social protection’ (20 per cent) and ‘monitoring and evaluation’ (16 per cent) are their primary social protection topics of interest, particularly in the context of unconditional cash transfer programmes.

CONNECT

In the Connect area of socialprotection.org, users can network publicly with other members of the platform via the Discussion Forum and stay-up-to date on upcoming social protection related events with the Events calendar. Online Communities provide a member-based space for virtual engagement dedicated to an interest area or topic. The Survey feature includes surveys designed by socialprotection.org and its members.

> ONLINE COMMUNITIES

socialprotection.org’s Online Community feature allows members to create and manage private, semi-private, or public communities, dedicated to particular areas of interest. Some are permanent discussion forums, like the ‘Community of Practice on Cash Transfers in Africa/Communauté de Pratique sur les Transferts Sociaux Monétaires en Afrique’, which includes 105 members, or the ‘Social Protection for Employment - Community (SPEC)’, with 95 members. Some communities were created for a specific project, like the ‘Curso de Monitoria e Avaliação de Políticas de Proteção Social - Maputo’, whose activities took place from February to April 2017.

Over the past year, 12 new Online Communities were created, amounting to 31 in total, of which 12 are currently active. ‘Poverty’, ‘humanitarian, fragile and risk-prone contexts’, ‘food security and nutrition’, ‘gender’, and ‘employment’ are the cross-cutting areas most frequently addressed. The majority have a focus on sub-Saharan Africa and Latin America and the Caribbean. ‘Programme design and implementation’, ‘monitoring and evaluation’, ‘graduation’, ‘social protection systems’, ‘cash transfers’ and ‘governance’ are the most popular social protection topics.

LEARN

The Learn area comprises the Virtual Campus, which facilitates access to webinars, self-paced e-courses and instructor-led e-courses, and Learning Tools, which provide practical guides on social protection policies and programmes. A Glossary is available on social protection and related topics. The News features the latest developments in social protection. The Blog feature provides an open platform for members to share their opinions and insights on social protection topics.

socialprotection.org supports a range of institutions in knowledge sharing through the facilitation of webinars, organised by the platform. The socialprotection.org team provides technical and logistical webinar services, and supports the organisation and dissemination of the events. Webinars can be watched for free, and audience members are able to engage with the panellists. Following the live event, the recording, presentations and webinar summary are made available to all users on the platform.

Many of the webinars form part of a Series, led by the platform’s partners. For example, The Brazil Learning Initiative for a World Without Poverty (WWP), the Social Protection for Employment — Community (SPEC), the Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO), HelpAge International, the ISPA Coordination Team and Oxford Policy Management (OPM), are currently in the process of reformulating their existing Webinar Series or creating new ones.

Since September 2016, 27 webinars have been organised by the socialprotection.org team, together with 18 different partner institutions and a broad range of panellists, attracting over 1,300 attendees. Over the past two years, ‘poverty’, ‘social inclusion’ and ‘gender’ have been the cross-cutting areas most frequently addressed, while ‘programme design and implementation’, with an emphasis on ‘financing social protection’, has featured as the most prominent topic.

2. Tools for Intersectoral Coordination — How to Integrate Social Policies in Conditional Cash Transfer Programs

29 September 2016
The Brazil Learning Initiative for a World Without Poverty (WWP)

This was the second webinar of the Series, ‘The Brazilian Experience on Social Protection Programmes’. The webinar presented the intersectoral coordination policies of social programmes in Brazil, with special attention given to the Bolsa Família Programme and its health and education conditionalities. It also presented the experience of the Unidos Colombian Strategy for Overcoming Extreme Poverty in monitoring vulnerable people at the local level. Check out the summary of the webinar, as well as its recording and presentations.

- Felipe Arriet (Asesor Técnico del Sistema Crece Contigo, Ministerio de Desarrollo Social de Chile Comentarista)
Webinar attendees are regionally diverse. Latin America (29 per cent), Europe and Central Asia (25 per cent), and sub-Saharan Africa (19 per cent) account for most of our audience. The Asian audience is lower, mostly due to time zone constraints. We are working towards catering to, and attracting, more attendees from the Asian region.

Webinar attendees are mostly ‘specialists or experts’ (17 per cent) in the field of social protection, ‘project managers’ (12 per cent), ‘consultants’ (10 per cent), and ‘students/interns/volunteers’ (8 per cent). This reflects the dissemination strategy of the platform, which aims to attract a diverse audience. It also implies that the webinars cater to a range of interest areas.
ORGANISATION TYPE OF WEBINAR REGISTRANTS

Individuals who register for webinars are mostly from ‘international organisations’ (45 per cent). This can be attributed to the network of the IPC-IG, as well as the partners who collaborate in webinar production and dissemination. ‘Government’ registrants also feature prominently (13 per cent). This is encouraging as the platform aims to attract more policymakers in the field of social protection. ‘Research centres and academia’ follow, with 12 per cent of registrants. This is promising, as this audience has valuable content to share on the platform.

COMMENTS FROM WEBINAR ATTENDEES:

“Thank you very much and congratulations to the authors for this book and their clear explanation of the complexity of this topic.” — Insights for Lessons for the Universalization of Health Care in Emerging Economies, 27 July 2017.

“Many thanks for bringing IPSA tools. I am particularly interested in public works programmes and thus downloaded the matrix and questionnaires from ipsatools.org. My question is “how do we consolidate the details generated from the questionnaires?” — Insights for Building rapid diagnostics of social protection systems: the CODI tool, 6 June 2017.

“Thanks to all for organising and implementing this great webinar!” — Insights for Chile’s Inter-sectoral Social Protection System and its Familia Program, 20 April 2017.

“It’s great to hear success stories of linking social protection with productive inclusion programs like SLP.” — Sustainable Livelihood Program (SLP) of Philippines: Linking Cash Transfer to Sustainable Livelihood Development, 18 November 2016.

> E-COURSES

socialprotection.org’s Virtual Campus hosts self-paced and instructor lead e-courses, shared by its stakeholders. It has recently developed and launched a Moodle-based platform to host its own e-courses, elaborated with our partners.
>> FAO’S E-COURSE

The ‘Social Protection as a tool for rural poverty reduction’ was the first course hosted by socialprotection.org in its new Moodle-based e-learning area. The self-paced e-course was organised by the Regional Initiative of Small-scale Family Farming of FAO’s Regional Office for Near East and North Africa (RNE), from 28 June – 13 September 2017. It aimed at building capacity and awareness for experts and policymakers to reduce rural poverty, improve resilience and optimise migration flows through social protection. It was structured into five modules, each consisting of a webinar and various support materials made available online.

>> TRANSFORM

Another initiative under development is the pilot e-course for the TRANSFORM Training Package. This will be the first e-course the socialprotection.org team develops and hosts in its new Moodle-based e-learning area. The project will adapt the TRASFORM Training Package into an asynchronous, instructor-led virtual experience.

The “Leadership and Transformation Curriculum on Building and Managing Social Protection Floors in Africa — TRANSFORM” is the product of a large-scale collaboration between various institutions, conducted over several years. Based on a request from the African Union, the work was initiated, led and coordinated by the International Labour Organisation (ILO). The syllabus was designed and tested by a wide group of social protection experts working in Africa. The work was funded through the financial assistance of Irish Aid and EU-SPS/Finland (EU Social Protection Systems Programme, managed by THL — Finland).

The TRANSFORM syllabus is organised in a modular structure, and reflects the key building blocks of a holistic and interdependent social protection system, currently offering eight modules:

1. Selection and identification
2. Legal framework
3. Administration
4. Management information systems (MIS)
5. Governance
6. Financing and financial management
7. Coordination
8. Monitoring and evaluation (M&E)

To broaden access to the TRANSFORM curriculum and allow its information to be easily accessible and widely disseminated, these eight TRANSFORM modules are being adapted into a virtual TRANSFORM e-learning course by IPC-IG, with technical assistance from the ILO and funded by EU — SPS/Finland. It will soon be launched as an asynchronous instructor-led online-course, which will target senior technical professionals who work mostly at management-level social protection administration in their countries.

> BLOG

The new Blog feature, launched 11 January 2017, has seen the publication of 68 articles up until September 2017, which can be divided into four types of posts:

1. Webinar Series — summaries of each webinar
2. The Ambassadors Programme Series — posts written by the platform’s Ambassadors
3. Sponsored Series — posts written by experts in the social protection field
4. Op-ed member blog post submissions
‘Conditional cash transfers’, ‘labour market programmes’, and ‘social insurance’ are the most frequently explored social protection programmes. ‘Social protection systems’, ‘programme design and implementation’, and ‘governance’ are the most popular topics addressed by the blogs. ‘Poverty’, ‘social inclusion’, and ‘agriculture and rural development’ are the most prominent cross-cutting areas, while Latin America & the Caribbean is the region most commonly discussed in the blog posts.

Our most read blogs from the past year:

- Social Assistance Grants for Empowerment (SAGE) Programme in Uganda by Nekesa Winny Akullo
- The Human Right to Adequate Food: Brazil’s rights-based development approach by Iris Dias
- Social Protection in India: The Present and the Future (Part 1 of 2) by Amiya Sharma

SHARE

The Share area allows members to create, upload and share content by adding a publication, programme, stakeholder, online community, forum topic, event, news, webinar, survey, online course or blog post to the platform’s interactive database.
socialprotection.org’s comprehensive communications strategy includes a monthly newsletter and active Facebook, Twitter, LinkedIn and YouTube social media accounts, which are progressively expanding in reach and engagement. In March 2017, the platform’s homepage was redesigned to improve navigation and highlight areas featuring the latest news, content and activities.

MONTHLY NEWSLETTER

Our monthly newsletter was first launched in December 2016, and has followed every month since. By 31 August 2017, the platform amassed over 2,000 subscribers. Each newsletter is dedicated to a new social protection theme. The latest news, events, upcoming webinars and online courses are featured, among other trends.

SOCIAL MEDIA

Social media supports engagement with experts in the field as well as non-specialist audiences. Each social media channel involves a tailored approach to engagement and content promotion. We have developed a calendar to ensure a wide variety of content is presented to the appropriate audience.

During this latest development phase, we began incorporating visual content into our social media outreach. This includes photos, cards and infographics. The objective of our social media activities is to increase awareness about socialprotection.org and its content, while educating our followers on the subject, as well as keeping them updated on the platform’s activities and the latest trends in the arena.

SOCIAL MEDIA FOLLOWERS

!Social Media Followers Chart
This strategy has shown success, as socialprotection.org’s social media channels have seen a steady increase in followers, becoming one of the main sources of access to the platform. Facebook has reached over 2,200 followers, more than doubling the 693 followers we had in September 2016. The platform’s Twitter account has also increased its followers substantially, jumping from 648 in September 2016, to over 1,200.

LinkedIn and YouTube are social media channels that we are still establishing a presence on, meaning their development is slower and more passive. socialprotection.org’s YouTube channel has 50 uploads and 124 subscribers. The video ‘Linking Humanitarian Cash Transfers with Long Term Social Safety Nets’ has almost 700 views, making it the most viewed of all the platform’s webinar recordings, while the video ‘What is socialprotection.org?’ has received almost 1,300 views.

THE HOMEPAGE

The homepage was overhauled during the latest development phase to provide more information about the latest content on the platform. The information is updated twice a week to reflect new content uploads, hot topics, recent activities and highlight upcoming events.

Webinars produced in collaboration with other platforms and institutions support engagement with new audiences. The participation of experts in the field also contributes to solidifying relationships in the social protection arena, which in turn supports further engagement with the platform and access to expanded networks.

This interactive page generates far more online traffic compared to the more streamlined design approach employed in the first development phase. This is reflected in the platform’s Google Analytics, as content featured on the homepage represents the platform’s top downloads. This has proven especially useful in the promotion and dissemination of blog posts, which are a new feature of the platform.

Outreach and engagement

Over the past 12 months, three components formed the basis of our outreach and engagement strategy. Members of the socialprotection.org team have participated in nine events for outreach purposes, where they promoted socialprotection.org and its content. The Ambassadors Programme, operated via the United Nations Volunteer website, continues to play a crucial role in generating engagement with users from regions around the world. This year’s User Satisfaction Survey allowed the socialprotection.org team to collect feedback from both users and members of the platform, which will be used to guide future developments. These initiatives have therefore supported outreach and engagement with existing and potential users, members and stakeholders of the platform.

EVENTS

Participation in face-to-face and virtual meetings are part of the platform’s knowledge-sharing and outreach strategy. Over the past year, the socialprotection.org team participated in and/or contributed to the following events:

- 22 September 2016: Mariana Balboni (IPC-IG Senior Project Officer) and Alicia Spengler (former IPC-IG Senior Project Officer) participated in the 8th Social Protection Inter-Agency Cooperation Board (SPAIC-B), in New York, the United States. The first year of activities of the platform, as well as its main achievements, were presented.

- 13-14 October 2016: Fábio Veras Soares (Senior Research Coordinator) and Mariana Balboni attended the Technical Workshop on Social Protection Assessment Tools and Methodologies, in the context of the EU Social Protection Systems Programme, in Paris, France. The workshop brought together government officials for a dialogue on social protection assessment tools.
● 18-19 October 2016: Raquel Tebaldi (IPC-IG Research Assistant) delivered a keynote address titled, “Gender-sensitive social protection systems in Brazil and Africa: Opportunities for South-South Cooperation” at the Annual SASPEN conference: Agenda 2030 — Comprehensive Social Protection in the SADC, in Johannesburg, South Africa.

● 31 October – 3 November 2016: Mariana Balboni attended the 8th Annual GSSD Expo 2016 dedicated to the theme “South-South Cooperation: Towards Innovation, a Roadmap for the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development”, which took place in Dubai, United Arab Emirates. She delivered the presentation, “Strengthening the institutional capacities of African governments for monitoring the SDGs through SSC”, featuring the results of an IPC-IG research study that was developed using the socialprotection.org tools.

● 27-31 March 2017: Mariana Balboni participated in the training workshop on the Leadership and Transformation Curriculum on Building and Managing Social Protection Floors in Africa (TRANSFORM), in Dar es Salaam, Tanzania. This recently rolled out training package is being adapted by the socialprotection.org team into an asynchronous instructor-led online-course to be hosted on the new Virtual Campus. There is also a corresponding Transform Tanzania Online Community.

● 24 April 2017: Mariana Balboni attended the 9th Annual Social Protection Inter-Agency Cooperation Board (SPIAC-B), which took place as a side event to the African Union’s (AU) Second Meeting of the Specialized Technical Committee on Social Development, Labour and Employment (STC-SDLE-2), Expert and Ministerial Meetings, in Algiers, Algeria. She presented an overview of the platform’s new features and its recent achievements. She also delivered a presentation on socialprotection.org’s activities, focusing on Africa, at the special Joint African Union — SPIAC-B Meeting on Social Protection Coordination and Cooperation in Africa, chaired by the AU.

● 29 May 2017: Mariana Balboni delivered a presentation about socialprotection.org as part of the activities of the Congo and Mali Study Tour, in Brasilia, Brazil. The main objective of the visit was to encourage knowledge-sharing and reinforce institutional capacities by presenting the Brazilian experience of social protection systems, poverty reduction programmes and the politics of intersectoral coordination to these African delegations.

● 10-19 July 2017: Mariana Balboni attended, as an observer, the High Level Political Forum for Sustainable Development, organised by the United Nations Economic and Social Council (ECOSOC) at the UN Headquarters, in New York, USA. She also participated in the Side Event titled Global partnership on universal social protection: ending poverty by 2030, organised by the governments of Finland and Malawi, the ILO and the World Bank, and co-sponsored by SPIAC-B and the Global Coalition for Social Protection Floors (GCSPF).

THE AMBASSADORS PROGRAMME

The socialprotection.org Ambassadors Programme is an online volunteer programme, operated via the United Nations Volunteer website. Individuals apply to participate in activities related to providing content, knowledge exchange and networking, as well as their promotion and dissemination. The Programme has a duration of up to six months, with Ambassadors being selected twice a year. Since 2015, we have welcomed 96 Ambassadors from 44 countries.

The Programme was first launched in tandem with the platform in September 2015, leading to the selection of 23 Ambassadors from 20 countries in the first phase, and 33 Ambassadors from 23 countries in the second. The third phase ended on 20 July 2017, and involved the participation of 40 Ambassadors from 23 countries. The fourth phase is currently underway.
Ambassadors actively participate in content sourcing, forum discussions, webinar production, the creation and maintenance of online communities, disseminating and promoting the platform and inviting their networks to engage in social protection knowledge exchange and capacity building within an assigned region. These activities fall under the following three areas, which each Ambassador is assigned to.

1. Content sourcing and upload
2. Knowledge exchange and networking
3. Promotion of the platform

> PROGRAMME OBJECTIVES:

- To ensure up-to-date and relevant content concerning the Ambassador’s regional or thematic interests are available on the platform.
- To promote and provide opportunities for engagement with socialprotection.org’s interactive features.
- To increase the visibility of socialprotection.org within the Ambassador’s network and assigned region.

> THIRD PHASE:

The most recent phase of the Ambassadors Programme has been extremely fruitful. Ambassadors representing a plethora of regions have uploaded a variety of content to the platform. They have also created infographics and cards for use on social media. Eight Ambassadors were selected to write articles for the Blog, which have been submitted in English, French and Spanish, focusing on a wide variety of topics related to social protection around the world. socialprotection.org’s Ambassadors are recognised as foundational contributors to the platform, ensuring its continued growth.

> USER SATISFACTION SURVEY

From 5 to 19 June 2017, the socialprotection.org team conducted a user satisfaction survey, to assess the satisfaction of the platform’s members and users. The Survey was sent to 6,300 individuals via various channels, including a MailChimp e-mail campaign, the socialprotection.org June 2017 Newsletter, and direct communications to key stakeholders in the social protection field. Seventy people responded to the survey, the majority through the e-mail campaign.

> FREQUENCY OF ACCESS

31 per cent of users who answered the survey access the platform regularly (at least once a week), which means that our sample is qualitative. This can be said to reflect the platform catering to social protection practitioners who require specialised content for their regular activities.

FREQUENCY OF ACCESS

- Monthly (1-2 times a month)
- Regularly (at least once a week)
- Quarterly (3-4 times a year)
- Only 2-3 times in total
- Yearly (1-2 times a year)
> PRIMARY REASONS FOR VISITING THE PLATFORM

The Publications search is the feature that attracts most users to the platform according to the survey (67 per cent), followed by ‘watching webinars’ (47 per cent). ‘Checking news and events’ is highly appreciated (39 per cent), while the Blog has gained an active audience since its launch (30 per cent). Most respondents (90 per cent) seem to use the platform for their work and research, which implies the intended audience has been effectively targeted.

PRIMARY REASONS FOR VISITING THE PLATFORM (MULTIPLE ANSWERS)

> PURPOSES FOR USING THE PLATFORM

socialprotection.org is considered a reference in ‘staying up-to-date’ on social protection matters and is the main purpose of the platform among users (69 per cent), fulfilling its prime objective. User interest in ‘comparing social protection systems within different countries’ (44 per cent), and ‘assessing social protection programmes’ (40 per cent) reflects our strategy of providing content that is globally representative, and expanding our Programme search feature.

PURPOSES FOR USING THE PLATFORM (MULTIPLE ANSWERS)
> RATING OF SOCIALPROTECTION.ORG SERVICES
Webinars and the Publications Search emerged as the most useful platform features. The Programme Search, Events, Online Communities and News features also proved popular among respondents. Interestingly, the Blog feature was also highly rated, which is a compelling finding considering its recent introduction (January 2017).

> RATING OF SOCIALPROTECTION.ORG ATTRIBUTES
socialprotection.org’s attributes are highly rated, particularly the quality of our ‘technical and administrative support’ and the ‘quality of content’ of the platform. ‘Member interaction’ needs to be improved. The newly integrated notifications system and administrative interface will assist in this considerably.

> RATING OF SOCIALPROTECTION.ORG ATTRIBUTES
> INTEREST IN OTHER FEATURES

An ‘active social space that allows member networking and matching of interests’ is the prime interest (54 per cent) of users in the future development of the platform. Adapting the platform for ‘mobile application’ comes in a close second (53 per cent). Having the ‘platform translated into other languages’ also features prominently (29 per cent), which is positive considering it will be launched in French this year.

Users also submitted ‘other’ features of interest (14 per cent), including a desire for more Blog content, a social protection project database, and an interactive map of social protection programmes. This feedback will therefore be considered in the future development of the platform.

>> OTHER FEATURES OF INTEREST:

- Ability for Online Community members to interact with one another, with automatic e-mailing, such as the CaLP D-Groups;
- More frequent Blog entries and links to/reposting of other relevant social protection blogs;
- Newsletter with all-new publications;
- Project Database (to see which donor-financed projects are implemented and where, etc.);
- Interactive map.

> OVERALL USER SATISFACTION

The quality of the platform’s content, technical and administrative support, and ease of use were rated positively among members. Regarding overall satisfaction, 49 per cent of users attested to being ‘very satisfied’ with the platform.

- Somewhat satisfied: 41%
- Neutral: 10%
COMMENTS FROM USERS:

"I just want to say that the platform is gold dust and the only reason I don’t use it more is because I’m so rushed with overall work load. My aim is to utilize the members space a lot more and facilitate conversations. You give excellent support. Thank you."

“For me the webinars are the best thing in the Social Protection page and community, please, keep them and improve it.”

“Thanks for being a supportive, accommodating and fun team to work with. We are grateful and proud of our collaboration with you!”

“From Latin American countries, we are really interested in using the platform, but the language is a big barrier. Would be great to have the platform in Spanish.”

“Many thanks for your work on the site — I refer people to it regularly.”

“Time zone challenges for being able to participate in webinars reduce participation opportunities — regional webinars would be helpful.”

“What strikes me while I fill out the form is the fact that I do not use it for anything else but the webinars at the moment.”
The way forward

LESSONS LEARNED

The past year involved unique challenges and lessons. In its second year of activities, the socialprotection.org team became more experienced regarding the platform’s administration, its features, and—most importantly—meeting the demands of its members and users. With the benefit of this improved perspective, we have a clear path in mind regarding the lessons learned and the way forward.

The platform is increasingly being used by policymakers from LICs and MICs, requiring the translation and provision of content in multiple languages. Currently, policymakers from Africa and Latin America, who are not native English speakers, face a barrier to engage with socialprotection.org and its content. Adaptability and flexibility are also needed when catering to a global audience, along with sensitivity to national and regional specificities, to liaise with partners and adapt the internal workflow. This is especially pertinent when considering time zones to conduct meetings and webinars.

Revising uploaded content and delivering tailored member communications is essential in ensuring the quality of content and maintaining user engagement. Being a member-based platform, there is a need to consistently adapt communications and dissemination strategies and update the data model, to maintain user activity and a growing member base. A priority of the upcoming development phase will be to improve member engagement. This will be supported by an internal data extraction system, allowing for the sorting of member data to support targeted engagement.

Online Communities require administrators to manage activities, upload content and foment discussions. Thus, there is a need to fully discuss these demands with partner institutions when developing an Online Community concept note, to prevent inactivity. This also demands effective and concise guidelines to support new administrators.

The same notion applies to conducting webinars, where effective collaboration between the socialprotection.org team and partners is essential to the success of an event. Therefore, being informed of the demands, and adopting a
A strategic and forward-thinking approach is crucial in realising fruitful collaborative initiatives with both Online Communities and Webinars. Accordingly, it is a priority of the socialprotection.org team to develop a range of clear, concise, and user-friendly guidelines corresponding to each of the platform’s interactive features that demand the involvement of both members and stakeholders. We also aim to consolidate these guidelines, as well as other supporting materials, under a ‘resources’ section on the platform.

In the same vein, expanding the platform’s interactive features should be accompanied by technical improvements to the internal administrative interface. This ensures the streamlined and efficient functioning of the socialprotection.org team, while ensuring consistent monitoring and evaluation of the content, which in turn supports effective strategic planning. Overall, it is essential to keep in mind that any additional feature demands corresponding training and administration on the part of the socialprotection.org team. Ultimately, human resources are essential in delivering a platform and tools that effectively support members in their knowledge-sharing and capacity-building endeavours.

FUTURE DEVELOPMENTS

The priorities of the platform evolve according to the needs of its members and stakeholders as well as the capacity and expertise of the socialprotection.org team. It will therefore soon be available in French, and later, in Spanish. New technical developments are also required to improve member engagement and user-friendly functionality. A new social space will be developed to support networking among members, allowing them to share interests and opportunities in new and exciting ways.

Given the challenges in access to technology in developing regions, a mobile application is a recurrent requirement to facilitate access through mobile devices, especially in African countries where smartphone use is widespread.

A more user-friendly administrative interface, which would make it easier for members to manage their own content, should also be prioritised. Finally, the platform does not allow for monitoring of users’ activities, nor identifying the most accessed pages or downloaded content, which hinders effective monitoring and evaluation of engagement and of platform traffic. This will be considered for the next development phase.

In addition to these technical developments, the socialprotection.org team is especially interested in promoting the new Virtual Campus, which now hosts a Moodle-based platform, linking to self-paced and instructor-led e-courses. We are very enthusiastic about developing and launching the pilot online course, which will adapt the TRANSFORM Training Package into an asynchronous, instructor-led virtual experience.

CHALLENGES FOR THE FUTURE

Flexibility and adaptation are the core virtues of socialprotection.org. There is a constant need to review and enhance the platform’s technical functionalities and features to improve the user experience. A central challenge is therefore to constantly monitor new policy content and trends related to social protection, while responding to the specific demands of stakeholders and members. Global outreach is necessary to cover a diversity of regions and topics, represent different geographical, cultural and language backgrounds and identify relevant ongoing discussions.

The socialprotection.org team is committed to providing access to quality, relevant, accurate, and up-to-date content, as well as increasing user engagement, with a special focus on policymakers from developing countries, as well as members from the Asian region. It is also our priority to maintain an innovative platform with a range of user-friendly tools serving different demands.

Technical development of the platform and engagement with potential new users demands human and financial resources. socialprotection.org has faced limited human resources compared to the expansion of its features and the corresponding growth of its member base worldwide. This is especially pertinent to communications and knowledge management activities. Therefore, a challenge for the platform is to ensure financial support for these and other future developments.
